BUSTER & BABS GO HAWAIIAN

ACT ONE

FADE IN:

WE BEGIN an episode of Tiny Toons entitled "That Wonderful Pig", written by Dini; Stoner; Ruegger & Hollander and featuring HAMTON & PLUCKY. It's a big star epic, Hamton's has a wonderful lead role, the hero. He even gets the girl. Plucky's part is just terrific, hilariously funny. Tremendous stuff, until...

BUSTER & BABS

burst in, screaming,

"Hold it! Wait a minute! Cut!"

They are irate. Another mediocre script and worse, they're not even in it. Who's kidding who? They stomp off to take the matter up with...

AMBLIN PRODUCTIONS

The GUARD at the gate doesn't let them in. Babs plays up the Tiny Toon Bunny Stars bit, but the guard isn't impressed. REAL movie stars make cameo appearances & have no problem entering, but our toons are small potatoes in the big picture. WE SEE: Michael Jackson. Robin Williams flies overhead as Peter Pan. . Dustin Hoffman strolls by (hook incl.). Babs realizes that she does these celebrities better than they do themselves.

It's a little adventure getting in, Buster & Babs are soon reduced to burrowing under the fence and sneaking onto the lot to see...

STEVEN SPIELBERG

is happy to see Buster & Babs. He agrees with them about the bad Tiny Toon scripts. Buster & Babs take that as a cue to pitch some of their ideas. They get interrupted before they begin by phone calls from BIG movie stars.

As it turns out, Steven is very enthusiastic about a new Tiny Toons Adventures script -- one that has been sent in by Renee Carter, Sarah Creef & Amy Crosby -- three eighth grade students from Waynesboro, VA. Steven is completely psyched by it, thinks it's perfect for Buster & Babs. He hands the script over...

"Run with it and dump that other cartoon that's in production. Good Luck!"

Buster & Babs have a look. Babs loves the artwork...

"I've never looked so good!"
